Message From the Editor

The Summer 2012 issue is now ready. Enjoy reading what you and your colleagues have produced. Should you need more copies, contact Dr. Ray Willard at Pittsburg State University, email: rwillard@pittstate.edu

At our spring conference at Emporia State University, the web master, Dr. Rusty Meigs presented information about publishing an on-line journal on our web site, atekan.org. Technical details are in progress for a trial edition. Consult our web site for details of this and other announcements.

Shorter articles are preferred, three pages minimum to six pages maximum, including references. The font used is known as "Times New Roman" and size 12, with 1.5 inch left margin. I can provide some assistance in word processing, if you use "doc," instead of "docx."

The reviewers for the ADVOCATE do an incredible job. Submissions are accepted throughout the year in preparation for the next edition. Check atekan.org. for information concerning the next edition.

H. Bruce Quantic, Ed.D.

Message From the President of ATE-K

I wish to extend an enthusiastic thank you to each person who made the spring conference at Emporia State University a success! Many compliments were shared about the presentations and the success of the conference.

The Association of Teacher Educators-Kansas publishes the ADVOCATE at least annually and upon occasion, bi-annually. Manuscript submissions include research reports, position papers, action research, descriptions of programs or practices, and innovations in education. Manuscripts are "peer reviewed," without the name(s) of authors or institutions. I encourage you to share the journal with colleagues and encourage them to submit a manuscript. Information about the ADVOCATE and the Kansas Association of Teacher Educators-Kansas (ATE-K) is found at: <http://atekan.org>
