

Dori,

Thanks for sending these materials. I'm pleased to approve your proposal on behalf of the CC IRB. You are free to proceed with your research.

One small piece of feedback for future reference: your application form indicated that you would not take photos unless participants consented to have their identity known, but your release form indicates that you are not showing identifying characteristics. This is a minor matter, but in future applications it is important to be consistent even about such minor things. It is always a courtesy to use a photo/video consent form; it may not be legally required if identifying information is not being captured. Nonetheless, I support your using it in this situation.

Best, Amanda
